TEN YEARS AGO TODAY.

Time do change things. This is true of Tonopah just as much as of any other place on this old earth. Just ten years ago today the first stage coach was driven into Tonopah, at that time a camp of about seven small shacks and probably 60 persons. With the advent of the stage from Sodaville, carrying seven persons, the population of the new camp was considerably augmented. Since that time considered has happened in the now city of Tonopah, but with one exception that first stage-load has drifted away. The one exception is W. W. Booth. Another of the passengers on that first stage, who still continues to pay Tonopah an occasional fleeting visit is H. C. ("Cal") Brougher, while still another was Ed Kennedy, now located in Goldfield.

The balance of that small band of adventurers has drifted away on the wings of time, some of them probably at the present time making a journey into some newer camp, while still others have probably passed to their last reward, to that ever new camp whose streets are of alabaster and of gold.

Ten years is but a short time, although time is most relentless in her onward march, and carries not. Many parties have come and gone since that eventful twenty-fourth day of March, 1901; the railroad has made Tonopah of easy access and eliminated the hardships and privations that attended that first desert trip, but none of the parties of recent years have entered the camp with lighter hearts or more optimistic spirits than did the little group of ten years ago.

NEVADA'S EXHIBIT.

Down in Los Angeles there is being held a Pacific Land and Produce exposition in which Nevada is a most prominent exhibitor, and according to all reports the representatives of the agricultural district of this state are giving a good account of themselves. Onions, apples of several varieties, potatoes, asparagus, lettuce, beans, cabbage, cauliflower, turnips, cotton, etc., are among the prize-winning products of the soil of this state. Considerable comment is heard around the exposition building, all being favorable and evincing a surprise that such fine agricultural products should be raised on the great American "desert."

When it is taken into consideration that California, Oregon, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico and Nevada are all exhibitors, it speaks volumes for this state that she should attain such prominence. However, why not? We who know the state fully realize her possibilities and are of the opinion that this is a fine example of the urgent necessity of advertising the state to the entire world.

SOLITAIRE, LIVES THE STAKE.

Now will the "holier than thou" bunch, who are opposed to gambling and card-playing sit up and take notice. A game of cards has saved the life of six persons in New York City, a maniac having written a letter to a cousin, in which he stated that he intended to murder his wife, four children and later commit suicide—but that he had determined to play a game of solitaire and stake the six human lives against old "Sol." If he beat the game all would be well, if he lost, the lives were to pay the penalty. He played the game, his wife and little ones watching the while, and won. He later left the house and has not been seen since. However, the game of cards proved successful in saving the lives and should place the fifty-two pieces of cardboard in a little higher esteem with those who frown upon the deck as the handiwork of Satan.

THE TRICKY JAP.

From reports which are daily emanating from the Hawaiian islands the mobilization of the troops and the sending of a number of vessels to far Pacific waters was action taken none too soon. President Taft, who has always been partial to the little yellow men of the Orient has undoubtedly been made to realize the fact that the Jap is not to be trusted, that he is one of the slickest and most treacherous of all the nations on the globe. If reports be true at the present time there are thousands of seasoned Japanese soldiers, veterans of the Russo-Japan war, situated in the island of Hawaii under the guise of laborers, only awaiting the proper time to make an effort to grab Uncle Sam's possessions.

When the east comes to an understanding of the "yellow peril" and realizes, as does the west, just what it means, then will the country have come to its senses regarding Japan and Japanese. Until that time the eastern and western sections of the country will be working at cross purposes regarding this evil.

Just how underhanded and treacherous the Jap can be was possibly best demonstrated shortly before the declaration of war between Russia and Japan. Taking advantage of festivities that had taken a large majority of the officers of the Russian navy—at that time stationed in the vicinity of Port Arthur—away from their ships, the Japanese, under cover of night, made an effort to sink the entire fleet and to what extent they were successful the world knows only too well. That the little yellow men would not hesitate at similar action towards the United States it is easy to believe. He has no friends so far as other nations are concerned. He may be on the most friendly terms and consummate treaties, but when he finds something that he badly needs he gets it, either by hook or by crook.

At the present time Japan needs a coaling and supply station in the middle of the Pacific. Hawaii would be the ideal spot, and an effort will probably be made to get it. The foxy Jap realizes full well that the possessions of the United States in the distant Pacific are far removed from her base of supplies and she would be at a great disadvantage in carrying on warfare at a distance so far removed. It can be calculated upon that he has these points figured out to a nicety and has pre-arranged his every move. The Japanese must be given credit for being long-headed and not making hasty moves or bad breaks.

Furthermore, this country will find itself up against an entirely different proposition from the experience of 1898. The Japanese are well trained, they are natural fighting machines and they have had the advantage of warlike educations in this country and in Europe. They have also an elegant navy and would prove a hard customer for the United States or any other country to mix with. Of course, in time, the United States would prove victorious, but the toll exacted would be something awful. It is to be hoped that bloodshed will be averted.

Milwaukee, the hot-bed of socialism in this country, has given that pet theory a trial, with the result that the many pre-election promises of that radical party have fallen hopelessly flat in an effort to put them into effect. At the recent primary vote for school directors, the startling information was given out that the socialistic vote had fallen off considerably within the short space of one year. But two of the four socialists candidates were elected, these running sixth and ninth in the list of ten. Thus do we have further illustration of fine theories proving miserable failure when tried out practically.

An assault upon Booker T. Washington, negro educator of Tuskegee, Alabama, friend of former President Roosevelt, etc., etc., calls for almost as much publicity by the press of the country as would an assault upon the president himself. Among others to offer sympathy to the negro who was clubbed, according to his assailant for playing "Peeping-Tom," is President Taft. Almost as much a commotion "up-north" about this mix-up as when the late Simon Lagree applied the lash to poor old "Uncle Tom."

Anyway Tonopah is not the only mining community with troubles of her own. In Gillespie, Illinois, a coal-mining town, foreigners to the number of one thousand recently paraded the streets, armed to the teeth and accompanied by a band, in a demonstration against American residents of the town. Who does this country belong to, anyway?

Forming the opinion that the men of the burg are running it on a "wide-open" basis, the women of Hunnewell, Kansas, have taken things into their own hands, held a caucus and nominated a city ticket. A vigorous campaign is promised. Rah, rah for women's suffrage. Mrs. Police Judge, however, can rest assured that all her troubles will not all be little ones.

Canada is also in the toils of "race" trouble. Negroes from Oklahoma to the number 165, who had intended to locate in the Canadian northwest, have been refused admittance by officers of the immigration department. Complications in diplomatic circles are liable to arise as a result of this action.

"Have one on me?" Nothing doing, if that one is a drink and the scene happens to be Tacoma, Washington. The anti-treating law passed in that city by a vote of almost two-to-one. One-third of the voters were women.

According to the announcement of the stewards of the New York Jockey club the faithful old race horse—sometimes called a quitter—is rapidly becoming a thing of the past. When the entire country goes dry poor old Kentucky will have to rely solely on its reputation for beautiful femininity or else join the ranks of the "has-beens."

And now comes President Diaz with the statement that the insurrection is not serious; that the insurgents are merely bands of brigands. Probably that has been the trouble all the time; that Diaz has refused to recognize the seriousness of the uprising.

The Chinenmen are not cutting off their queues to any great extent, as it was expected that they would do. The habit of conservatism is too strong; and besides, a plea is made in behalf of the queues on the basis of cleanliness and sanitary value.

The indicted bankers whose trial is on in Idaho blame their bookkeepers for the false accounts. But they are themselves responsible to the public for their bookkeepers.

PERSONAL MENTION

DEMOCRATS WORK SLOW ON TARIFF

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 24.—There is even less information available regarding prospective democratic tariff legislation than there is with regard to the general legislative program. There has been no lack of prognostication on this subject, and a good many statements have been printed purporting to reflect the intentions of the democratic majority. As a matter of fact, however, there is practically nothing certain, or at least nothing known, about any plans that may have been formulated. The ways and means committee has been working assiduously to put into shape the mass of information in its possession so as to form a tariff bill. The committee is working as it did on the Payne bill; that is to say, the majority of the committee is making up the bill and the minority will have nothing to say about it except the privilege of submitting a dissenting report. None of the democratic members of the committee will say a single word about their deliberations, so that it may be taken as an accepted fact that anything printed on the subject is pure guess work.

JIMMY GARDNER WINS OVER DENVER BATTLER
DENVER, March 24.—Jimmy Gardner of Lowell, Mass., out-classed Johnny O'Keefe of Denver in a bout scheduled for ten rounds at the Auditorium last night. The fight was stopped in the sixth round after O'Keefe had been knocked down twice.

SENTENCE COMMUTED BY THE PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, March 24.—President Taft has commuted the sentence of Thaddeus Potter of Portland, Ore., convicted of complicity in the conspiracy to defraud the government of public lands.

President Taft commuted the sentence to a fine of $50 "because he aided the state in the prosecution of more culpable offenders."

SECRETARY OF WAR PRAISES CONFEDERATES

WASHINGTON, March 24.—A declaration of the pacific intention of the administration toward all the world and tribute to the bravery and self-sacrifice of the south are features of a letter addressed by Secretary of War Dickinson to the organization of Confederate Veterans at Fort Worth, Texas, which offered their services as infantry to "our common country."

HERMOSILLO SAFE; REBELS HAVE RETIRED

HERMOSILLO, March 24.—This town is safe. The rebels have withdrawn, and the federal soldiers have returned from La Colorado, which was abandoned by the insurgents before they arrived. Nearly 100 Yaqui Indians arrived last night to help guard this place, making 200 here. The Yaquis are proving loyal to the government.

OTHER INDICTMENTS OF ROBIN'S HELPERS

NEW YORK, March 24.—Out of the tangle of financial transactions first made known by the collapse of Joseph G. Robin's chain of banks, the grand jury drew an indictment against William J. Cummins, directing head of the Carnegie Trust company, for the alleged larceny of $335,000 from the institution a year ago.

SHEEHAN MAY WITHDRAW.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 24.—It is generally understood that Sheehan will withdraw from the senatorial contest next week, and leave the way clear for the selection of a democratic successor to Chauncey M. Depew.

PATRICK FINLEN ALSO PASSES AWAY AT BUTTE

Word has been received here that Patrick Finlen, brother of Miles Finlen, died only three days previous to his brother at Butte City and a double funeral took place in that city on Saturday of last week, it being an unusual coincidence. The bodies of the two brothers were shipped on the same train for burial in Bay City, Mich.

ON THE RAMPAGE.

About the hottest man in the legislature was Senator Sweeney of Eureka. He passed a bill in the senate asked for by the county commissioners of Eureka, and when it struck the house it was pocketed by Assemblyman Man and it never turned up. Sweeney was out after Man but was unable to locate him on the last day of the session and the bill never turned up. Sweeney is on his trail with five days' rations and blood in his eyes.

CREATEST INVENTION OF THE AGE
The above statement is absolutely correct. The housewife can use this mop on either ceiling, wall or floor. To wring the cloth simply turn a little crank, the cloth is almost instantly dried without straining and wetting the hands as in the old-fashioned way.
